"Choose your battles wisely. After all, life isn't measured by how many times you stood up to fight. It's not winning battles that makes you happy, but it's how many times you turned away and chose to look into a better direction. Life is too short to spend it on warring. Fight only the most, most, most important ones, let the rest go."

This 332 BC battle was the last one between the Persian empire under the dominion of Darius III and Macedonia's own Alexander the Great. Although those who've seen the films from the 300 series might be inclined to think that the Persian armies were overconfident and incompetent, Darius had at least planned this battle well. He chose a big, open area where his army of over 240,000 would ...
