Jaws is a 1974 novel by American writer Peter Benchley. It tells the story of a great white shark that preys upon a small resort town and the voyage of three men trying to kill it. The novel grew out of Benchley's interest in shark attacks after he learned about the exploits of shark fisherman Frank Mundus in 1964.

In Peter Benchley's Jaws novel, there's no rousing victory for Chief Brody like there is in Steven Spielberg's film. Instead, the shark simply dies after receiving multiple wounds via grizzled hunter Quint, who's killed in the process. Marine biologist Matt Hooper is also eaten by the shark, leaving Brody as the story's
